U. S. SENATE WILL RATIFY PACIFIC PACT, BELIEF NOW

Treaty May Be Ratified Without Change

COMMITTEE ACTS

All Reservations Are Nullified Before Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 28.—The progress made by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in considering and recommending the Conference treaties, appears to have given much satisfaction to the United States. The Committee, with one exception, made a clean sweep, nullifying the vexatious reservations to the Pacific Treaty.

President Harding, according to the Daily Telegraph's New York correspondent, does not believe that the reservation adopted regarding an armed force alliance was necessary and that its only object was to conciliate the irreconcilables. It is not certain whether the Senate will insist on the reservation, but it is accepted by the Administration Senators on the theory that it is in line with what friends of the Treaty say the Treaty means and was made in order to avoid a prolonged Senate fight which might jeopardise ratification of the Treaty.

The correspondent adds that indications point to the entire work of the Conference being approved by the Senate within a month or two. Senator Lodge believes that the Pacific Treaty will be extensively debated, but he hopes to see it ratified unchanged, as reported from the Committee. Senators Borah and Johnson will lead the fight against the Treaty offering various reservations or proposing changes.

The Morning Post's political correspondent believes that the adoption of the reservation insures ratification of the Treaty. The only danger he sees being the "well-meaning efforts which enthusiastic friends of the Treaty may make to eliminate the reservation and force the Senate to vote on the Pact as negotiated."

JOHANNESBURG WITHOUT LIGHT; FIGHTS IN STREETS

Technical Staffs Quit, Putting City In Bad Plight

(Reuter's Service)

Johannesburg, Feb. 28.—The city was in a very serious plight tonight, owing to the technical staffs leaving their work, declaring that the measures for their protection were insufficient, thus leading to the closing of the power station.

The Industrial Federation, in declaring a strike, asked the staffs to join the men. The closing of the power station means the depriving of the city of light, and the stoppage of the trams and the industries dependent on electric power.

The City Guard was called out and twenty-seven arrests were made following a collision between police and strikers. Two policemen were injured and many arrests were made in another affray at the last Rand Proprietary Mine.

Johannesburg, Feb. 28.—The Government has seized the power station but the volunteers have not yet got steam up. The city is again in darkness. Dynamiting is increasing. There were eight heavy explosions today, five being on the power line. Little damage was done.

A fatal affray occurred at Boksburg today. Two strikers were killed and a police officer and two men wounded.

Cape Town, Feb. 28.—The strike debate in the Assembly today ended in the rejection of the Opposition motions and the adoption of the Government amendment advising immediate return to work pending enquiry by an impartial board.

G. BRITAIN LAYS DOWN RULES FOR EGYPT'S STATUS

London Reserves Right To Defend Country Against Aggression

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 28.—The Government has published a declaration addressed to the Sultan of Egypt with the regard to the future status of Egypt, laying down the following principles:

1. The British Protectorate over Egypt shall be terminated and Egypt declared an independent sovereign state.

2. As soon as the Egyptian Government passes an act of indemnity applying to all Egyptian inhabitants, martial law as proclaimed on November 2, 1914, shall be withdrawn.

3. The following matters shall be absolutely reserved to the British Government's discretion until it is possible to conclude agreements in connection with them between the British and Egyptian governments, namely, the security of Empire communications in Egypt, the defense of Egypt against all foreign aggression and interference either direct or indirect, the protection of foreign interests in Egypt and the protection of minorities, and the Soudan. Pending the conclusion of these agreements, status quo in all these matters shall remain intact.

RUSSIAN CONCERT TONIGHT IN AID OF FAMINE VICTIMS

In the Town Hall tonight commencing at 9:15 p.m. the finest symphony Concert of the season will be rendered by the most talented musical artistes in Shanghai. The program which has been widely advertised includes selections from Chopin, Litz and other famous writers. The Municipal Orchestra under the direction of Maestro Mario Paci will assist.

The Russian Famine Relief Fund raising funds in aid of relief of Russia's Starving children, is concentrating all its energies in collecting funds in order to save the lives of the unfortunate children, thousands of whom have been rendered orphans through the terrible Famine which has visited the Samara and Saratov Provinces of Russia.

Reports from the famine stricken districts by the Indian Famine expert Sir Benjamine Robertson, who has been conducting personal observations in the above mentioned Volga Provinces, testify to the assiduous relief work at present on hand by the various charitable organisations and state that the relief is being received by those persons suffering from the effects of famine, namely the children.

Every ticket purchased for the Grand Symphony Concert will help save the lives of children as all money received from the concert will be immediately dispatched to the Harbin Central Committee from where relief will be sent to the starving children in Russia.

FRENCH CABINET TO ASK SHELVING OF BANQUE AIRING

Action To Be Taken In View Of Judicial Inquiry

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Feb. 28.—M. Pernotte's counsel has drafted a ten-page argument to show that his client's arrest was not justified, and that he should be provisionally released.

As regards the sale of the shares of the Societe Alsacienne, M. Pernotte's counsel argues that the Banque Industrielle with the Banque Hollando-Americaine sold them at an average price of 300 francs to a third party, who actually marketed them. The subsequent rise therefore was in no way attributable to the Banque Industrielle.

Paris, Feb. 28.—Thq Cabinet has decided to ask the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber to shelve the proposal for a parliamentary enquiry into the failure of the Banque Industrielle de Chine in view of the fact that the judicial investigation is to follow its normal course.

COLORFUL SCENES AT MARRIAGE OF PRINCESS

Beautiful Ceremony At Westminster Abbey

LONDON JOYFUL

Press And Public Pay Tribute To Couple

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 28.—Despite the gloomy weather forecasts and much rain during the night, Princess Mary's wedding morn dawned brightly, and with the dawn the pilgrimage began. The route was crowded by 7 o'clock in the morning, mostly by women and children, but the trams, busses and railways later brought thousands, all of whom were in the happiest of spirits.

The outlook from Buckingham Palace at 10 a.m. along the Mall, packed with spectators, was remarkable, and members of the Royal Family, including the bride, came to the Palace windows to gaze at the living avenue.

Guests going afoot to the Abbey found difficulty in getting through the dense crowds thronging the precincts. Everywhere were people waving Union Jacks, many of which were inscribed "Long Live the King." Troops with bands marched to take up positions and a stream of motor cars conveyed uniformed officers and officials and bejewelled ladies in wonderful custumes, long before the time fixed for the arrival of the Royal party.

Tremendous cheering greeted the almost simultaneous appearance of the Queen's procession from Buckingham Palace and Queen Alexandra's from Marlsborough House. The Queen, with her three sons, in the glass coach, wore a hat of golden tissue, surmounted by a plume of white ostrich feathers, and a magnificent ermine cloak, covering a beautiful dress of gold and black brocade, trimmed with old lace. The bells of St. Margaret's crashed into a merry peal on the arrival of Her Majesty at the Abbey. Queen Alexandra's procession followed Queen Mary's procession one minute later.

KING IN UNIFORM

Ten minutes elapsed before the bride left the Palace. The King, in the uniform of the Grenadier Guards, tenderly handed his daughter into the carriage known as the Irish Coach, because it was built in Ireland, and then took his seat beside her. The Princess was a vision of loveliness in her magnificent wedding dress. She looked pale, but she smiled happily in response to the tumultous cheering. As the three carriages passed, preceded and followed by the glittering sovereigns escort, the crowd vented its enthusiasm unrestrainedly. Many women were moved to tears.

Shortly before the Royal processions started, Viscount Lascelles left Chesterfield House, accompanied by his best man, Sir Victor MacKenzie, in a closed motor car. Both were in the uniform of the Grenadier Guards and were enthusiastically greeted.

The gaiety filling the streets was reflected even inside the Abbey, where the customary sombre grey

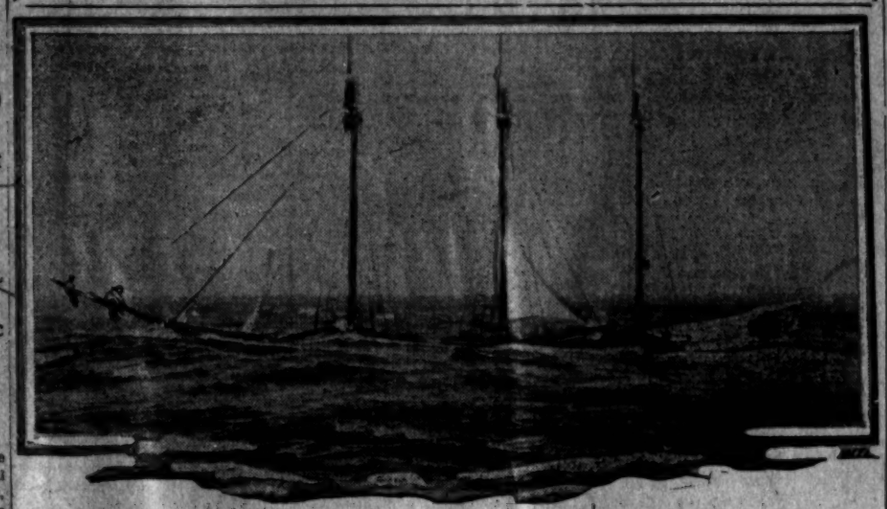
Schooner Sinks Off Massachusetts Coast



THE schooner James M. W. Hall, just before it sank, after having been caught in a heavy storm off the coast of Massachusetts and beaten by high seas into a leaky condition. Two members of the crew clinging to the rigging, where they were tossed fiercely and were nearly exhausted before their rescue, can be seen hanging on the bowsprit.

SOVIET ENVOYS TO YIELD ON EVERY POINT AT GENOA

Their One Condition Will Be A Reconstruction Loan

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Moscow, Feb. 27.—The Soviet Delegation has started for Genoa. It will be instructed to grant all concessions and ultimatums provided a reconstruction loan can be obtained. Although the Soviet leaders are not concerned in the famine, which affects only the peasants and bourgeoisie, now that the famine is encircling the Red army and they will be on starvation rations by March, the Soviet leaders have realised that if no outside help is obtained their power will be doomed.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 28.—The possibility of Russia's refusing to participate in the Genoa Conference is suggested in a telegram from Moscow, which says that M. Tchitcherin has declared that the proposal to fix a six-months' probation for Russia is absolutely inacceptable to Russia, who desires to be treated as an equal. Any form of tutelage or an admission of inferiority would be rejected. If such a proposal were adopted as a preliminary basis of the Conference, Russia's participation would become problematical.

Helsingfors, Feb. 28.—A report from Moscow stated that a conference of delegates of the Soviet Republics of Azerbaijan, Armenia, White Russia, Bokhara, Georgia, Ukraine and Khorosin and of the Far Eastern Republic have signed a protocol authorising Soviet Russia to represent them at the Genoa Conference.

Lloyd George At End Of Patience With Unionists

(Reuter's Service)

London, Mar. 1.—The Parliamentary correspondent of the Daily Telegraph reports that Mr. Lloyd George is most dissatisfied at not receiving the loyal support of Parliament to which he is entitled. The correspondent states that the Prime Minister has written to Mr. Austen Chamberlain as the head of the Unionists expressing his feeling in plain terms and intimating that he cannot continue to submit to the present humiliating conditions.

The Daily Telegraph in the course of an editorial article declares that Mr. Lloyd George is completely justified. The continuance of such treatment as he has received must render his resignation inevitable.

Strike Tension Tightens In Shanghai; Crew On Empire State Rebels

Empress Of Japan Anchored In River Here; Efforts Are Being Made To Enlist Houseboys For Service South

Trouble aboard the Pacific Mail Liner Empire State yesterday is the only development in the labor situation locally. The port of Hongkong is still closed and land traffic out of that city is suspended. Meagre despatches [illegible] are not encouraging but no tangible evidence has as yet been seen that the strike will extend to Shanghai.

Despite lack of official announcement the Empress of Japan, veteran ship of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Company's fleet, which already has completed one un-announced voyage from Hongkong to Shanghai, supposedly, is in port awaiting instructions to transport men to the colony. The company officials are completely silent, as hitherto, concerning the movements of the vessel, and so far as their public records are concerned the ship is still tied up at Hongkong, though swinging from a buoy in the river yesterday afternoon.

Exclusive news dispatches to THE CHINA PRESS yesterday conveyed the information that war-time powers had been conferred upon the governor of the Crown Colony, and an immediate effect of this action may be seen in the fact that even private shipping agencies received meagre information yesterday afternoon from Hongkong.

In view of the fact that it is foreseen that the marine strike may spread to Shanghai the fear has been openly expressed that an effect altogether adverse to commercial interests here must be realised by reason of the fact that a considerable part of the surplus labor of this district already has been recruited for strike breaking service in Hongkong.

JAPAN STILL HERE

While the steamer Empress of Japan is idle in the stream here it has been ascertained definitely that upwards of two thousand workers for service in Hongkong have been recruited by agencies in Shanghai and are being held in readiness to be shipped south. They may be taken to Hongkong at any time on this vessel.

Chinese workers at sea have been kept fully apprised of the situation at Hongkong as has been evidenced by the fact that some crews arriving here bound for Hongkong already had voted to strike and concrete evidence on he solidarity of the workers was given on the arrival of the steamer of the Empire State of the Pacific Mail.

It is understood that the Chinese crew of the Empire State acted just as the crew of the Nanking of the China Mail did before its recent arrival at Shanghai while still on the high seas and voted strike in sympathy with the Hongkong seamen. A difference however in the procedure on the two vessels, was that while the crew of the Nanking remained placidly at their tasks, the Cantonese on the Empire State, once in sight of the China mainland showed open signs of dissatisfaction. More or less trifling in effect, one lesser member of the Chinese crew of the Empire State yesterday openly threatened Capt. Henry Nelson, skipper of the vessel. A number of minor incidents led the officials of the company here and those in charge of the vessel to dismiss the [illegible] Cantonese crew at Shanghai. This change necessarily delayed the sailing of the ship and by reason of it the Empire State will not sail for Hongkong until today.

It is known that every effort is being made by the striking seamen through their union at Hongkong to engage the sympathy and co-operation of workers of all ports on the North coast of China and in particular at Shanghai.

It has been known that agencies seeking to obtain strike breakers for relief in the situation at Hongkong have gone to considerable lengths and have even sent out canvassers in Shanghai to steal away from foreign households, houseboys, cooks and domestic coolies, qualified to serve aboard ships offering them wages approximating a double scale to domestic service. Small measure of success has attended this effort, however, and no general complaint has yet arisen by reason of it.

CREW REBELS

The steamship company encountered further, and for a time serious, difficulty when they started putting into operation their program of substituting Ningpo men for the Cantonese crew yesterday. The Cantonese refused pointblank to leave the ship and matters seemed to be nearing a dangerous crisis. The United States Marshal was called into the matter and a call was issued for police assistance. The crew then was marshalled ashore and they will be cared for while here by the steamship company and sent to their homes.

But this did not end the trouble aboard. The steerage passengers, practically all Cantonese, started a demonstration as a sympathetic move. It took a great deal of persuasive eloquence to quell the disturbance, the company offering to take all off the ship and send them to Hongkong by other vessels, but the matter was finally smoothed over and the ship will leave this noon for the South.

Smallpox Epidemic Now Believed Over

While small pox has not disappeared from the Settlement limits, it is accepted now that the recent epidemic definitely has run its course, so far as the foreign population is concerned, as a second week has passed with no new report of a foreign case. This is set forth in the current issue of the Municipal Gazette. In the same report of the Health Department, however, it is recorded that in the past seven-day period eight Chinese died from the disease, a total much lower than in any recent preceding week.

Seamen At Canton Again Offer To Send Envoys

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, March 1.—A committee of business men has been appointed to maintain the essential services.

Men from the Navy and Army are controlling the Government abattoirs so as to insure an uninterrupted supply of meat.

The bakeries resumed work this morning. Europeans have been substituted for Chinese in one of the leading bakeries.

The Morning Post publishes the following telegram dated last night from the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs in Canton:

"The seamen are ready to send delegates to Hongkong to discuss the outstanding questions. Their attitude is conciliatory."

Introducing the Emergency Bill in the Legislative Council last evening, the Governor remarked that the result of the seamen's strike had been generally to unsettle popular feeling here and in Canton. Efforts, he said, had been made and were still being made to bring out other classes of labor who were not concerned in the matter which originated the strike, that is if the reasons given for the seamen's strike were correct. It was essential for the safety of the Colony that steps should be taken to confer on the Executive most drastic powers to deal with the situation which might momentarily result in disorder, owing to the misguided efforts of persons who were under the influence of Bolshevist doctrines.

The compositors of the English newspaper offices and foreign printing works have put in an application for a ten percent increase in wages.

Hongkong, Mar. 1.—The office-boys have intimated their intention to cease work on March 4. All the hotels are practically closed, being without boys. Mr. Taogart, Managing Director of the Hongkong Hotel, is personally attending to the cuisine for the provision of food for resident visitors only at the Hongkong Hotel. Chinese restaurants and tea-shops have closed. An unusual sight today was that of a queue of European men and women including the highest Government officials waiting outside Wiseman's Cafe to purchase bread, no customer being served with more than a one-pound loaf.

CLUB SECTION HEARS PAPER ON CHILD DISCIPLINE

Members of the Mothers' Department of the American Woman's Club yesterday morning listened to an interesting paper on "Discipline" prepared by Mrs. Houghton, of Peking, and read by Mrs. F. R. Sites.

The paper, which is too lengthy for reproduction in this issue, dealt in a keen and sympathetic way with the training and education of children. Self-mastery and the development of the will, Mrs. Houghton contends, is the all-important care of parents during the early years of their children's lives. No hard and fast rules could be laid down, but mothers should study their children and experiment in their disciplinary methods, always bearing in mind that the child should be brought to an understanding for himself of the right lines of conduct.

A mother should first watch the growing consciousness of desire in the child, then supervise the control of desires. When consciousness of his own will-power came preparation should be made for the conflict of this will-power and that of the parent. Following this the writer points out, comes increasing self-will, but also a knowledge of right and wrong and increased self-mastery.

Corporal punishment Mrs. Houghton approves in some cases, but individual cases should be studied and she favored rather the practise of depriving the child of certain acquistomed things.

PRICE OF $50 FIXED FOR SHARES QUOTED AT $230

Chartered Stock And Produce Exchange May Be Enabled To Continue Business

As a measure to stabilise the troubled affairs of the Chartered Stock and Produce Exchange, which was one of the earliest of the many Chinese brokerage concerns to set sail here on the vexed seas of finance, the price of $50 per share has been proposed to settle outstanding current accounts for the exchange's shares which before the present crisis were quoted at $230. Officials of the institution expressed the belief that this proposal would be accepted and that the exchange therefore will be enabled to continue to function.

An unlooked for factor in the situation, which those Chinese who are particularly interested assert has had a good effect, was the alleged suicide of one Hun Chuan-chang, a broker whose interests intricately were involved in the affairs of the exchange. It is said that he took poison.

In connection with the affairs of the Chartered Stock and Produce Exchange an excerpt from the Mixed Court report of the current Municipal Gazette, published today, is significant. It follows:

"In another case the Continental Stock and Produce Exchange through Mr. Pereira, the Brazilian Vice-Consul and President of the company, charged the Treasurer with intent to defraud the complainant of a lakh and a half. This case is set for a special hearing. No comment can be made while this case is sub judice, but the filing of several civil cases indicates that sooner or later a large number of criminal proceedings will be brought in connexion with these exchanges for embezzlement or other irregularities."

Y.M.C.A. TEAMS REPORT $43,282 THUS FAR IN DRIVE

Over two-thirds of the money sought by the Chinese Y. M. C. A. in its annual membership and financial campaign has been raised, according to the returns announced last night at Martyrs' Memorial Hall before a large audience. The sum to date is $43,282.

Last night's results indicated an exciting race between the Peace Team, captain C. C. Nieh, with the week's total of 3,191 points, the Emancipation team of M. N. Yang, 3,028 points, and the Reconstruction Team, under T. T. Pan, 2,350 points. Three more days are left for the work of the campaign.

The struggle appears to be now between Mr. Nieh, Mr. Pan and Mr. K. S. Lee. The followers of each team are putting in their best energies and with a determined effort to win. It is expected that the town will be rather carefully canvassed between now and the end of the week. The memberships range in price from $6 to $100 and contribution to any amount are accepted.

The foreign firms have within the last few days begun to take an added interest in the campaign and a number of contributions were reported from them last evening. The feeling is that the Association, while supported, as it should be, most largely by the Chinese, is contributing to the welfare of all business in the city and for this reason the foreign firms are taking a part.

In the fourteen years that these campaigns have been conducted the interest has never exceeded this year. The goal is $60,000 and 3,750 members and it would seem that with the deep interest shown this should be realised.

The standing of the teams last evening was as follows:

Team	Captain	Points
Peace,	C. C. Nieh	5,882
Love,	K. S. Lee	5,368
Emancipation,	M. N. Yang	4,783
Reconstruction,	T. T. Pan	4,672
Love,	S. Y. Wong	3,934
Righteousness,	Hsu Yuen	3,681
Cooperation,	C. C. Woo	3,484

Sacrifice,	E. S. Ling	2,039
Equality,	K. F. Chang	2,026

Council Against Any Effort To Organise Chinese Volunteers

The Secretary of the Municipal Council, Mr. N. O. Liddell, informs us that there is no truth in the statement, reprinted from the Chinese press, that the Council is giving consideration to the efforts of the Sinza Road Street Union to organise a body of Chinese Volunteers.

"Under no circumstances," the statement reads, "would the organisation of any armed body of men, outside the Volunteer Corps, be permitted in the Settlement."

MANY STARS OF OPERA WILL PLAY HERE THIS YEAR

The latter part of this month will mark the beginning of a musical calendar for Shanghai with red letter days in March, April, and, after the summer season, in October.

Lydia Lipkovska, whose exquisite lyric soprano voice has charmed its hundreds of thousands all over the world, is coming to Shanghai for three concerts in March. With her will appear Sklarevsky, the noted pianist, who made his first successful appearance in the Far East in this city four or five years ago.

Besides these artists, who are coming here under the direction of Mr. A. Strok, the best known concert manager in the East, who brought Mischa Elman to Shanghai last year, music lovers in this city will hear Efrem Zimbalist, the violinist and Mary Garden. Under Mr. Strok's direction, too, the incomparable Pavlova and her Russian ballet, now touring the United States after a successful European season, will be seen here, in October.

Lipkovska, who has sung with the late Caruso in New York at the Metropolitan, at Convent Garden, London, the Opera in Paris, La Scala in Milan, the Grand Opera in Petrograd and, latterly, with the Chicago Grand Opera Company, will be heard in one concert, toward the end of this month, and in two costume recitals. The first costume recital will be in Russian and French, the second in English and Spanish.

A magnificent background of costumes and scenery by Leon Bakst, world famous for the lavishness of conception and exotic brilliance of color, will be provided for these two recitals at which Sklarevsky will be heard, too.

In April, Efrem Zimbalist comes under Mr. Strok's direction from Japan where he is giving a series of 19 concerts, 8 of which are at the Imperial theater in Tokio. Zimbalist is one of the "Big Four." The others are Fritz Kreisler, Jascha Heifetz and Mischa Elman. Mr. Strok arranged for Mischa Elman's appearance here last year and he declares it is his intention to bring out all four "premier" violinists of the world. Kreisler will play here in 1923 and Heifetz, undoubtedly, in 1924.

Anna Pavlova and her Russian ballet which swept everything before them in Europe last year and which are repeating their success in the United States, will come here in the early fall. The company will be in England from May to July, after which they will sail for Japan for 20 performances, beginning September 10. Following their appearance in Tokio, they will come to Shanghai.

The appearance of Pavlova in the Orient marks a new era for music and dancing as an art in the Far East. The exquisite grace and beauty of Pavlova, her charm and inimitable skill, have never before been revealed for the delectation of the sojourner in the East who, surrounded by comforts is, nevertheless, cut off from such luxuries as Pavlova and the "world's greatest" in music.

OUTLINE PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN FOR JOFFRE HERE

A tentative program of activities in connection with the visit of Marshal Joffre to Shanghai has been drawn up by the French authorities here.

On March 9, the day following the Marshal's arrival, the distinguished visitor will make a trip of inspection through the International and French Concessions and will visit the representative municipal establishments of the French community. In the evening he will be dined at the French Consulate and later a lantern procession will be held in his honor.

On March 10 Marshal Joffre will review the French Municipal Police and will lay the cornerstone for the extension of the Franco-Chinese Municipal School. He will also plant a tree in Kou-kaza Gardens to commemorate the Allied victory in the late war, will attend a reception at the French Municipality and will be guest of honor at a banquet to be given by the French and British veterans of the war.

On March 11 the Marshal will review the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, after a reception in the morning—details of which will be announced later—and will attend a dinner which is being arranged by the French community. The French Consulate is in charge of the program throughout.

Colorful Scenes At Mary's Wedding

was transformed into a spectacle of glowing color. A bright crimson carpet covered the stone floor of the nave and choir, ending at the sacrarium, where there were wonderful ornamentations on the High Altar. Masses of dimly burning candles formed a superb setting for the ceremony. Streams of sunshine through the windows played on the lavish display of crimson and gold braid and the decorations and jewels worn by the most distinguished representatives of every aspect of life of the Empire. The arrival of a corps of Gentlemen at Arms in scarlet and gold, and carrying halberds, to take up positions in the transepts, completed the setting of this superb pageant.

GREETS BRIDE

Lord Lascelles, who was seated in the sacrarium, rose when the Royal party, including Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra, arrived, and remained standing, awaiting the bride, whose arrival was heralded by the choir singing unaccompanied "Lead Us Heavenly Father." The procession was headed by the Canons in magnificent vestments, then the choir and the Dean of Westminster, preceding the bride who walked with her head proudly erect, her left hand resting lightly on the King's right arm.

Viscount Lascelles advanced and stood beside the Princess at the top of the steps to the sacrarium, the ten bridesmaids standing at the foot of the steps, and the King slightly behind the Princess, while the whole Royal Party stood within the rails of the High Altar. The Queen, whose eyes were steadily fixed on her daughter throughout the ceremony, was, with the other Royal ladies, visibly affected as the Dean of Westminster began the ceremony with an opening exhortation.

The Archbishop, replacing the Dean of Westminster, conducted the service, the bride and bridegroom making the responses in a firm loud voice. Both knelt during the final prayers. The Archbishop of Canterbury, addressing the pair, emphasised the fact that they were at present the very focus of the interest and prayers of millions of people throughout the world. He believed that no daughter of a reigning King had ever before been married at the Abbey. He referred to the war services of Lord Lascelles and to the services of Princess Mary in the hospital and in her leadership of disciplined English girlhood. The Archbishop concluded by bidding them God-speed on behalf of the Empire and people.

There were renewed scenes of enthusiasm when the Royal procession returned through the streets.

A striking incident of the return was that the roar of cheering in Whitehall suddenly ceased when it was noticed that the bridal pair had halted before the Cenotaph. Princess Mary handed the sergeant-major of the Guards on duty a portion of her wedding bouquet of white chrysanthemums and lilies of the valley to place at the base of the monument. Lord Lascelles saluted gravely when the sergeant-major laid the flowers, without card or inscription, in the center of the other floral tributes.

"FAMILY AFFAIR"

Beholders at Abbey were more impressed by the family nature of the ceremony than by the splendor of the spectacle.

The final touch to this family aspect was given at Buckingham Palace on the occasion of the departure for the honeymoon in Shropshire. The King and his sons stood at the exit of the archway in the front of the Palace. As the open landau drawn by four grey horses emerged, the guests pelted the bride and bridegroom with rice and confetti with such vigor, that both had to stoop low to avoid the onslaught. All were laughing heartily.

The Queen was not present, but remained in the Grand Hall, where she had just tearfully bade farewell to her daughter.

The route to Paddington Station was still crowded with spectators, who gave the bride and bridegroom a most enthusiastic send-off.

London, Feb. 28.—The King in the course of a message to the nation expresses his deepest thanks for the warm and affectionate good wishes of his subjects throughout the Empire on this happy and memorable occasion. The goodwill of his people all over his realm, His Majesty declares, is appreciated all the more vividly because many are at present living in the shadow of the greatest hardship and anxiety.

The wedding special from Paddington to Shifnal was greeted with tremendous enthusiasm along the entire route. Whole populations turned out and tumultuously cheered the passing train. All the railway platforms and other vantage points were packed with waving throngs. Complete schools of boys and girls assembled at some places. The special passed Leamington, Birmingham and Wolverhampton stations slowly, enabling the waiting crowds to convey their cordial greetings. The special accomplished a non-stop run, arriving at Shifnal to the minute.

FRENCH COMMENT

Paris, Feb. 28.—The French press devotes much space to Princess Mary's wedding, giving minute descriptions of the presents and dresses. Marshal Foch, interviewed on the occasion, dwelt on the British Army's heroism during the war and said that it was fitting to recall tragic memories at a time when Britain was proudly sounding the praises of the Royal Family. He declared that all France was happy in paying homage to the illustrious house to which France's most faithful friend, King Edward the Peacemaker, belonged and of which King George and the Prince of Wales had gained her sincere affection.

The Matin, commenting on the interview, says that the Allied Generalissimo's tribute is "a bunch of roses of France worthy of Mary, England's daughter."

London, Feb. 28.—The Royal Bride is greeted most cordially by the newspapers this morning, which unite in paying tribute to Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles and the Royal House. The newspapers shower felicitations on the couple and pray for their happiness. They dwell with particular pleasure on the fact that Princess Mary has chosen an English commoner.

The Daily Mail declares that no marriage of the Royal Family has been in more complete accord with national feeling, adding: "We are all thankful that the Princess is marrying for love."

The Westminster Gazette goes farther and says that the fact that Princess Mary is marrying an Englishman encourages the hope that the Prince of Wales will marry an English woman.

The Daily Express declares that the whole country approves this love match.

The pages of the Daily News are largely monopolised by the wedding and truthfully reflect the keenness of public interest.

A few people with camp stools kept an all-night vigil at Whitehall in order to get a good place. One hundred and seventy persons will attend the wedding breakfast at Buckingham Palace. Their Majesties, and the Bride and Bridegroom occupying one table. There will be a special honeymoon express to Shifnal.

HADLEY DECLINES ASSESSORSHIP IN THE MIXED COURT

The matter of the Brazilian Assessorship in the Mixed Court appears to be at sixes and sevens.

Brazilian interests in the court were previously brought before Assessor Ferrajolo of the Italian Consulate, but following the recent case in which a Chinese stock exchange claimed Brazilian registration, resulting in considerable controversial legal argument, Mr. Ferrajolo resigned his jurisdiction. It was then announced that Mr. F. W. Hadley, former American Assessor and at present a practising attorney, would sit as Assessor in Brazilian cases. Yesterday Mr. Hadley announced that he would not act.

CHINA BISHOPS GO TO SINGAPORE FOR CONFERENCE

Bishop L. J. Birney of Shanghai, Bishop Herbert Welch of Seoul, and Bishop Keeney of Foochow, will sail this morning on the s.s. Pyrrhus for Singapore to attend the All-Asia Conference of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church to be held there beginning March 15.

In addition to the China bishops, three bishops from India, and Bishop Bickley of Singapore will attend the conference, at which important questions of general church policy and missionary activities will be discussed.

Bishop Welch and Mrs. Welch arrived in Shanghai on the Empire State from the United States, where the bishop has been on church matters since October.

"The campaign for the Methodist Centenary, which unfortunately has been lagging, has picked up again wonderfully," he said, "and the full realisation of the fund of over $100,000,000 for extension work will only be the matter of a short time now. It has received a splendid new impulse since the great denominational meeting in Detroit in the winter."

Bishop Welch also said that the public opinion of the Conference was impressed with the success of the work done at Washington, although it was realised that only a part of what was to be done had been accomplished.

"As to China," he said, "the general opinion is that China did not get all that was due, but nevertheless all that was possible because of internal conditions here."

SUICIDE VERDICT IS RETURNED IN THE PELLING CASE

A verdict of death self-inflicted while temporarily of unsound mind was returned yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of the inquest held before British Coroner G. W. King in the case of Mrs. H. E. Pelling, wife of Police Sergeant Pelling of Sinza Station, who was found with a discharged revolver lying beside her in her home at 7 Avenue Road on the morning of February 23.

Evidence was given by Dr. J. Murray, Detective Sergeant Knight, who was called in by Sergeant Pelling after the tragedy, Inspector P. W. Reeves, Detective Inspector J. Burnside and servants at the Pelling home.

"I was called to the Pelling Home at 10:30 o'clock on the morning of the 23rd," Dr. Murray testified. "Mrs. Pelling's body was lying on the floor of the dining room on its left side. Blood had flowed freely from the mouth and ear.

"From the position of the body, I deduce that Mrs. Pelling had fired a revolver, the bullet passing through the roof of the mouth, going through the brain, penetrating the skull which it fractured, rebounding and then lodging in the brain. Death had been instantaneous.

FACTS POINT TO SUICIDE

"The body was near the fireplace. Everything pointed to a self-inflicted wound. The body was fully clothed and the clothing had not been disturbed."

Dr. Murray then declared that he had seen the deceased previously on several occasions and that she had never expressed any desire to take her own life. He had recommended that she be invalided.

There had been a rumor current, Dr. Murray said, that Mrs. Pelling was about to become a mother. This, he said, was false and she had denied it to him.

Detective Sergeant Knight of the Sinza Police Station was the next witness called. He testified that early on the morning of the 23rd he had received a chit asking him to come to the Avenue Road address, and that he arrived there at 8:25 o'clock.

Sergeant Pelling met him at the door, he said, clad in his pajamas.

HUSBAND'S REVOLVER

"'Come in quick,' he told me. 'My wife has shot herself,'" Detective Knight testified. "We went into the dining room and Sergeant Pelling told me that his wife had shot herself with his revolver. 'She must have taken it from my bag,' he said. 'There it is!'

"Then he pointed to the revolver, which was lying just at the right of the fireplace. I examined the weapon. It was fully loaded with the exception of one cartridge which had been recently discharged. There was a note on the table, apparently in Mrs. Pelling's hand-writing. There were no signs of a struggle. No one had apparently moved the body. I believe that the wound was self-inflicted."

The cook-boy in the Pelling home testified that he arose at 6:30 o'clock on the morning of the tragedy and at 7:30 took tea to Mrs. Pelling. She came downstairs afterwards, he said, and in response to a question from him said that she wished no breakfast. She also asked him not to clean her room. Then she gave him a letter to post.

"I went out to post the letter," he testified. "I was gone six or seven minutes. When I returned I went upstairs to clean Mrs. Pelling's room. About ten minutes later, the coolie ran up and told me Mrs. Pelling was lying on the floor, shot. I went to call Mr. Pelling. He was in bed, asleep, and I had to awake him."

The A. D. C. "Three Twins"

A crowded house, enthusiastic and happy, crowds of pretty girls, tuneful music, lots of fun, and—"Bimini Bay"—this is the story of last night's production, the 159th, by the Shanghai A.D.C.

The whole thing went with a swing and a verve which reflects credit on all concerned, and all the people on both sides of the footlights seemed immensely pleased with each other and with themselves.

It was a great night and the "Show" will run for several nights for a certainty.

The principals, Mrs. Allison, Miss Howe, Miss Limby and Messrs. Donne, Chris. Wingrove, Speelman, S. H. McMurray, and Eric Prince, were backed up by a troupe of clever and pretty little dancers.

These dancers worked splendidly together and gave great pleasure with their twinkling feet and sparkling eyes, receiving well-deserved applause again and again. The owners of the aforesaid twinkling feet and sparkling eyes were—Mrs. Roberts, Misses Berry, Bourke, Gubbay, Ratcliffe, Noble, Hamilton, Hunter, and Mrs. Foster who did the solo dance of the "Yama Yama Man" song with Miss Limby.

One must congratulate Miss Limby on her success in this, her first big part, in which she had to both dance and sing, she was very charming and accomplished.

We had a taste of Mrs. Allison's beautiful voice in the duet "Boo Hoo-Tee Hee," and in her part of Mrs. Winters, a lady of tears, the only criticism one can make is to point out to the producer that in casting the piece he has chosen one of the best looking, of all his very good looking crowd, for the most unsympathetic (but the most difficult) part in the caste. Nature has favored Mrs. Allison much too well for her to be able to play a human-crocodile with exactitude!

Mr. Donne was a host in himself, as usual, and brought down the house with his exceedingly clever and amusing 'mandoline' accompaniment in his duet with Miss Howe—"Goodnight Sweetheart;" yet again, in the "Bug" song with the five Wasp girls, and in the Hypnotic Waltz with Miss Limby. Mr. Donne proved once more that his true vocation in life is the stage, but after all, Shanghai is the gainer.

It is difficult at one o'clock in the morning to write a full notice of all the good things that the Lyceum provided, but perhaps the best of all, certainly the most artistic, was the song "BIMINI BAY" with which Miss Howe sang, danced, and shimmied herself into the memories of that audience.

In a gorgeous frock of some wonderful gold brocade, a shimmering golden skirt offset with scarlet, Miss Howe scored a huge success with 'BIMINI,' by Jimini! It was a most difficult thing to do well, and if it had not been done well it would have fallen flat, but the whole house rose to the artistry and the charm with which Miss Howe sang this exquisite piece of light fooling. It may not be usual but it is certainly only fair to say that the really beautiful frock which Miss Howe wore was designed, made, and kindly lent for the production by MAHRIAH (Inc.). The address of this firm was not on the program, so ladies will have to hunt it out for themselves.

We think the A.D.C. ought to acquire that frock and present it to Miss Howe for her "Bimini," by Jimini, deserves it.

Mr. Speelman made lots of fun and got lots of applause—'Shtoong!'

Mr. Chris. Wingrove showed that he is a finished actor as well as having been responsible for the beautiful color effects and design of the stage setting of Act II.

Mr. Prince as the General was sound and did well, acting as a foil to the fun of the fair—the fair, well some of their names are on the program and some of them, unhappily, got forgotten.

Mr. S. H. McMurray was confident and successful in his part.

The dresses of the Show Ladies, of whom there were six, made a most effective splash of color when they paraded on to the stage in the second Act.

All Shanghai will go to this show, and Mr. R. W. Wingrove is to be heartily congratulated on the success of his production.

The Pneumonia Month.

March is a typical pneumonia month and usually gives a high rate of mortality for the disease. After a long and hard winter, the system loses much of its resistance and people grow careless. When every cold, no matter how slight, is given prompt and intelligent attention, there is much less danger of pneumonia. It should be borne in mind that pneumonia is a germ disease and breeds in the throat. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an expectorant and cleans out the germ ladened mucus and not only cures a cold but prevents its resulting in pneumonia. It is pleasant to take. Children take it willingly. Sold Everywhere

Both speeches stirred the assembly considerably and many Korean guests appeared to be greatly moved by the utterance. The taking of a photograph and cheering for the Republic of Korea concluded the ceremony.

The Hongkong men will be put to a hockey test on Tuesday or Wednesday against Shanghai's best, and with the Knockout Shield play concluded between the Harlequins and the Portuguese it is quite likely that the local side will be in a position to present a strong eleven against the visitors. The Hongkong men are scheduled to return on March 8.

The rugby match holds the chief interest in the Hongkong visitors' visit. The local men after their win over Hankow recently in several inches of snow, are quite prepared to battle the Hongkongers to a close score in the first interport rugby affair ever played between the two big ports of China.

The local fifteen has not yet been announced and will not be known until after Saturday's trials yet, figuring past trials, and "Probables" performances, it is not too far fetched to suppose that Spencer, Wainwright, Seddon, McMeekin, Columbine, Gotch, Goulden, Webb, Webster, Millar, Trenchard, Davis, Raikes, Barraclough, Adams, Harder will be considered for the final selection.

As concerns hockey Hongkong will find Shanghai at its best. The final for the Knockout shield on Saturday will leave the Harlequins and the Portuguese together with the hockey men of the S. F. R. C. in tip-top form for the match, with a multitude of players to select from. It is expected now that the majority of the hockey team to oppose Hongkong will be selected from the Harlequins, with a few subs from the Rugby Club, and another few from the Portuguese Club, with a first class eleven resulting from the selections.

Hongkong, in spite of its fine training will find Shanghai a hard rugby and hockey proposition for Shanghai now is at home with its best to select from and all in their best season's condition for competitions in interport matches.

SMALL BORE RIFLE TO BE GIVEN GOOD TRY-OUT BY S.R.A.

Small bore rifle shooting, proposed at the last recent annual general meeting of the Shanghai Rifle Association is to be given a thorough try-out in Shanghai, and it is quite likely that the 22-calibre gun will be adopted by the association in addition to the .303 rifle now in use.

The S. R. A. Committee has made arrangements for a Paper on Small Bore Rifle Shooting to be read to members of the Rifle Association at an early date which will be announced later by special circular.

An offer, made by Messrs. Vickers-China, Ltd., of Peking, to take one of their rifles and make a test with it under local conditions has been accepted by the Committee. The rifle is due to arrive in Shanghai immediately.

The Committee has also been successful in obtaining locally a B.S.A. No. 12 Target Rifle. It is the intention to test both rifles as soon as possible and to make known to the members of the Association the results of the tests with the object of enabling members to decide which is the better rifle.

METAL RACKET NEXT

A tennis racquet having a metal frame is being tested by several of the first ten ranking players of America with the idea of manufacture in large quantities in case it proves adaptable to the modern court game. The racquet is the invention of Mr. William A. Larned, many times national champion and one of the closest students of the game. Mr. Larned conceived the idea of substituting a metal frame for the usual wooden-rim racquet some months ago and has been experimenting with several models since. It is claimed the new instrument of play overcomes the disadvantage of warping and losing shape when re-strung, gives greater flexibility of stroke and additional force to the returns. The usual wooden handle is used.

Play-off For Basketball Title Will Probably Be At Rowing Club Tomorrow

Bearcats Have Not Announced Wishes But Are Counted On For Game

If the tie for first position in the Foreign Basketball League between the Bearcats and the Strokeside is to be played off and one team left outstanding as the champion for 1921-22, the play-off will be for one game only, on Friday night, and undoubtedly at the Rowing Club.

The Bearcats have not yet announced whether or not they will enter into post season play. The Strokeside men have offered to settle the season's title on the result of one more game, but no reply has been made public as yet. The Bearcats, it is believed, are quite willing to let the tie for the lead stand as it is, considering the absence of two of their best men, or else to postpone the playoff until they can put their best team in the field.

It is not likely however that Irle's men will vote not to play and it is impossible to play the tie off after this week. The Rowing Club men go in for rowing drill and training commencing Monday; their floor will be filled with racing shells, and some of them have said, when they once start at the oars they will not relinquish them for the basketball again.

The place for the playing of the championship game was not mentioned in the Strokeside's suggestion for one more game though it is safe to say that when the match is finally arranged, the Rowing Club will be selected.

"Began to think she would never get well."

Our Portrait is of Miss FLORRIE ORGAN, of 100, Clark Street, Ladywood, Birmingham, England, whose father writes:

"My daughter Florrie was suffering with a very bad head covered with Sores and Eruptions, and in fact her mother was afraid to comb her hair. She had been under several doctors, but all to no purpose, so I began to think she would never get well again and lose all her hair. As your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' cured me of Glandular Swellings in the Neck some years ago, and so averted my having to undergo an operation, I decided to give 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' a fair trial in the case of my daughter, and I am pleased to say it effected a wonderful cure in just over a fortnight."

SUFFERERS from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout, should realise that lotions and ointments can but give temporary relief; to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter the root cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes and expels the impurities; that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take, and free from injurious ingredients.

Dr. Ferguson Sees Gains For China At Conference

Valuable gains for China, and for the other participating nations as well, are seen as results of the recent Washington Disarmament Conference by Dr. John C. Ferguson, advisor to President Hsu Shih-chang and counsellor attached to the Chinese delegation, who is at present in Shanghai on his way back to Peking from America.

"A fifty percent success? No," Dr. Ferguson said. "It was a success not to be measured in percentages. No one got wholly what they expected, of course, but all got a great deal out of it and all will be perfectly satisfied when they go home and think it over.

"Certainly China got encouragement toward the full realisation of her dreams of political and financial independence from the conference. China did not get those things definitely, but she did get what she has never gotten before, wonderful encouragement and inspiration. And all that China needs to get on her feet is encouragement from the outside."

Dr. Ferguson himself talked like one to whom the long dream of a new, strong China was at last emerging from the nebulous dream-stage to a point where practical realisation of her aims and desires was actually within grasp.

In his own words "China is at the long-looked for dawn of national accomplishment of her ideals".

DAWN OF ACCOMPLISHMENT

"One thing stands out prominently," Dr. Ferguson said, "and that is that China is assured that she will not be bothered by the aggressions of outside powers in her internal affairs in the future. No single power, in the future, can slip anything over on her as has been done in the past.

"Through the consummation of the four-power naval agreement China is assured of ten years, at least, of peace in the Pacific. That means that for the next ten years China can go ahead solving her own problems without fear that a conflict will arise to retard the work.

"I have always thought, and still think, that all China needs is the opportunity to work out her own destiny. With ten years of assured peace that opportunity is here. In ten years I look for all the diversified elements in Chinese political life to blend into one common cause—the stable future of this great country.

"In the past the chief drawback to national unity has been the varying opinions of different sets or cliques in China, each wanting national unity but disagreeing on how it can best be obtained. Each of the cure-all remedies that they have advanced at different times has been proven a failure.

SEES BETTER GOVERNMENT

"But China, through her long history, has experienced every kind of government. Through these experiences and the opportunity that presents itself through the work of the Conference, China can now work toward a common understanding. China, really, is on the dawn of realising those great things in store for her as a real, progressive nation. Through the fires of her own internal combustion there will emerge one pure system of government. The best of the baser things will be blended together and a new strong, real China will face the world.

"Through the other things that the Conference has done for China, the removal of foreign post-offices, conferences of extra-territoriality, Shantung settlement and less important questions China has not only received direct benefit but she has set the other nations watching each other. They will watch each other's future moves, and thus assure China that no single one will take advantage of opportunities that may present themselves during the remodeling of government for further aggrandisement at China's expense.

"And when, in the bright future, China has accomplished these fine things which are surely to come to her, it will be the new, progressive leadership—evolved from these revivifying experiences—that will lead the nation. The old, reactionary elements know they are through. They have no chance of success."

Dr. Ferguson, who is at the Kalee with Mrs. Ferguson, will proceed to Peking after a short visit in Shanghai.

Obituary

MR. JOHN EITTER

Mr. J. Eitter, popularly known as "Old John," and one of Shanghai's oldest public employes, died early Tuesday at his home at 37 Quinsan Road at the age of 75 years. Mr. Eitter joined the police force in 1887. In 1882 he was transferred to the Public Works Department, where he has remained since. Mr. Eitter went home on seven months leave last year and came back greatly improved in health, but since his return had failed steadily. Four children survive him.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at Pahsiengjao Cemetery.

Big Basketball Playoff Friday

The one other floor in Shanghai, that at the Chinese Y.M.C.A., with its restricted floor space, and very limited accommodations for spectators would be found quite unsuitable for the big match. The Rowing Club, on the other hand with more open floor space and its special grand stands which were arranged for the last big match provides an ideal court for the accommodation of the big crowd that certainly will attend.

Some of the Bearcats adherents are urging that the final game be played on some floor other than the Club, basing their opinion on the fact that the Strokeside have played 17 of their 18 games at home, and would have an advantage over the Bearcats in playing for the title again on their home court. The argument however is off-set by the fact that all courts are essentially identical within the white lines, and because of the inadequacy facilities to accommodate a big crowd at any other place.

It is expected that the Bearcats will accept the Strokeside's invitation for the playoff today, and in consideration of the big public wishing to witness the match, decide upon the Rowing Club floor.

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR FORMING OF CHEMIST SOCIETY

Preliminary to the organisation of a chemical society in Shanghai, a meeting was held Tuesday evening in the Great Eastern hotel, where a dozen British, American and Chinese chemists and teachers of chemistry dined and discussed the need and advisability of forming such a body. The outcome was the appointment of a committee to draw up a plan of organisation.

After the dinner, the chemists heard with great enjoyment a paper by Mr. G. W. Himus, analytical chemist of the Electricity Department, on the "Calorific Value of Coals." Mr. Himus took up in detail the various methods of determining this factor in fuels and pointed out the sources of error attaching to each. His paper, although packed full of facts, had the great merit of brevity, which added zest to the vote of thanks that was tendered him.

Those present were: Messrs. J. S. Shengle, F. C. Chow, R. B. Kennard, R. Bachrach, J. Dalton, M. H. Chow, F. A. M. Noelting, F. C. Mabee, M. Chow, G. W. Himus, E. W. D. Elmer and P. L. Bryant. The committee consists of Messrs. Himus, M. Chow and Bryant. Chemists who are interested in becoming charter members of the proposed society are asked to send their names and addresses to The Chemical Society Committee, 41 Canton Road.

Spot and forward bar silver were each down 3/16d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 62¾ cents, and the London-New York cross rate improved to 443⅛.

The only change in the opening rates this morning was a drop in the Yen rate to 69¼ but, as the market was weak from the opening, the official Sterling rate was subsequently dropped to 3-0 1/32, the Gold Dollar rate to 67¼, the Franc rate to 725, and the Yen rate raised to 70¼.

After the drop in rates the market still remained weak, and closed with possible sellers of Sterling for March at 3-0 3/32 and for April at 3-0 1/32.

The best sellers of Gold Dollars at the close were offering 67¼ for March and 67 for April. There was, however, not much business done as banks were rather unwilling sellers.

The London silver market was reported as being weak, with speculators and India the only possible buyers, while China, America and the Continent are likely to sell. The American market is also reported as being weak.

Soldiers To Have Cars Of Their Own

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 26.—The Ministry of Communications has drawn to the attention of the Ministry of War the fact that numerous parties of soldiers travel frequently on the Peking-Hankow railway without tickets and make themselves a nuisance generally to ordinary passengers, both Chinese and foreign, according to complaints received by the Ministry.

The Ministry of War was requested to take immediate steps to remedy this evil. The Ministry of Communications expresses readiness to attach a special car to each train for the use of the soldiers between Peking and Changtehfu but says that the practice of allowing them to travel among other passengers must cease.

Thousand Killed In Opium Battle, Hongkong Report

Note.—The following report was received yesterday by the Eastern Times. It has not been confirmed.

Hongkong, Feb. 28.—Over a thousand civilians and troops were killed when Cantonese forces attempted to check opium smuggling conducted by a combine of Yunnan, Kweichow and Kiangsi troops at Kweilin, Kwangsi where the Canton Army is making its headquarters in preparation for the punitive expedition against the North.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the generalissimo of the expedition and General Li Lieh-chun, commander of the left flank, are reported to have both fled to Chaoping, 50 miles South of Kweilin, after being routed by Lin Ching-ting, leader of the smugglers.

Smuggling of the drug had been conducted on a large scale since the fall of Lu Yung-ting and the troops from the three provinces had organised themselves for the purpose of carrying on this traffic for profit. When Dr. Sun established his headquarters in Kweilin, orders were given that the scandal must be stopped and a detachment of Cantonese troops were sent to raid certain dens.

The raiders met with strenuous armed resistence and precipitated a street fight followed by a general battle between the smugglers and the Cantonese Army.

Dr. Sun and General Li first took refuge in Pinglo after the defeat of his army, but the outlaws pressed hard and both retreated to Chaoping. The families of the Cantonese officers have been sent back from Wuchow to Canton.

Representatives of the Southern Government in Shanghai, upon hearing the report of the fighting between Sun Yat-sen's forces and the opium smugglers near Kweilin, expressed doubts concerning it. They feel that the report may have been circulated by Northern propagandists who are very active in Hongkong and Shanghai. They have wired Kweilin for information.

Why A Union Medical School In Shanghai?

IN yesterday's issue of THE CHINA PRESS some account was given of the proposed plan for a Union Medical School in Shanghai. We would like to call attention to the importance of Shanghai as a center for such an undertaking and to the necessity of the enterprise being carried out as a union enterprise.

Shanghai, though not the political capital of China, is undoubtedly the most progressive city in the country. It is the point from which new ideas radiate. It is the meeting place of the East and the West and, therefore, naturally feels Western influences more strongly than cities in the interior. As the great commercial port of China, constantly growing and expanding, it bears a close resemblance to New York and to London. Modern education has been further developed here than anywhere else. There are more schools using the English language as the medium of instruction in this part of China and hence a medical school founded here would have many important feeders. This is an advantage because, for the time being, advanced professional courses can be given better through the medium of English than in Chinese.

Again we have in Shanghai a large medical profession consisting of both foreign and Chinese doctors of high qualifications and these men would welcome an opportunity of being connected with a good medical school as lecturers and demonstrators. No city could afford better clinical facilities than Shanghai, for no city in China is better supplied with hospitals, both for men and for women. Just as medical students are attracted to the large cities in the West on account of the clinical material afforded by the hospitals, so they would naturally be attracted to Shanghai.

The Woman's Union Missionary Board, after considering the best location for a woman's medical college decided upon Shanghai and it will appear that, if a school for men is founded, the two schools could be carried on in the closest co-operation, resulting in greater efficiency and economy for both.

If Shanghai has all these advantages and is "par excellence" the place where a strong medical school should be established, the question may be asked, "Why then did not the China Medical Board decide upon Shanghai rather than upon Peking for the location of the splendid school which they have established?" The reply is that, in the beginning, it was not a case of "either," "or" but a case of "both." It was intended to do the same thing for Shanghai as has been done for Peking. The Peking school was established first because there was a Union Medical School which was taken over as the nucleus of the new enterprise and perhaps because a magnificent gift to China like this might be appreciated in the eyes of the Government more clearly if located at the capital. Owing to the fact that the Peking school has cost much more than was anticipated and to the many calls upon the generosity of the Rockefeller Foundation, arising out of post-war conditions, the founding of another school in Shanghai similar to that in Peking was reluctantly abandoned. We venture to think that if it had been in the beginning a case of "either," "or" and that only one school was to be established, the choice would have been given to Shanghai.

Both the Germans and the French saw the advantages of Shanghai as a center for medical education. Before the war the Germans had developed a good school which has now passed over into the hands of the Chinese. And in connection with the Aurora University a medical school is being developed. So much then for the advantages of Shanghai as a center for a medical school.

In regard to its being a union enterprise, it must be apparent to everyone that it would be extremely difficult for any one mission to undertake to support single-handed a high grade medical school.

Since 1881 a medical school has been carried on by the American Church Mission and in 1896 this school became incorporated in St. John's University. As stated in the columns of THE CHINA PRESS yesterday, this school has already furnished China with some of the men who are now leaders in the medical profession of this country. There is no desire on the part of St. John's University to abandon this work, but in the interests of the cause of medical education in China it seemed best to the authorities of the university to plan for a stronger school than it could afford to carry on by itself and hence this project for a union school was launched. It has met with great favor by all those concerned in China. The desirability for it appeals to all missions and educational institutions in this part of China and also to the Chinese medical profession. Through union and through co-operation with the Chinese the project becomes a practicable one.

Of course, it is not contemplated that the school will have such expensive buildings and equipment as that in Peking, but this does not mean that it would be unable to carry on work of the highest grade.

It goes without saying that a few strong medical schools in China would be of greater benefit to the missionary cause and the cause of medical education than a large number of weak ones. When one looks on the map of China, he finds that at the present time the only medical school teaching in English all along the coast is the one at St. John's. Of course, we do not overlook the work at the Hongkong University, but this is in an English Colony and not in China proper.

Undoubtedly, there are many ways in which the missionary work in China should be further developed, but we doubt if there is at the present time anything of greater importance than the establishment of this projected school in Shanghai.

WEATHER WOES!

Days are dismal, dark and chill,
Folk complain of feeling ill.
Nights are far, oh, far from forrid.
Folk not feeling ill feel horrid.
Now arrives the gala term
For the germette and the germ;
Mother microbe and her pup,
All of them are waking up.
Through your mouth they're inward bound,
People, coughing, spray them round;
Down your gullet, dim and dank,
They are marching, rank on rank.
In your trachea they're lurking,
On each nasal passage working,
Hail the gargle and the spray!
These may keep their hosts at bay.
For their advent there is reason—
This is the bacilli season.

On the surly winter breeze
Rides the microbe of the sneeze;
Crawling unforeseen to sock us
Comes the wily pneumococcus,
Bent on swift and certain killing.
Grippe is gripping; chills are chilling.
'Ware, you boastful cold-plunge tubbers!
'Ware, you careless! Wear your rubbers!
Bold bacteria and rude
You encounter in your food,
In the bed and on the floor,
Creeping underneath the door.
Bugs are in the drinking water
And the flu germ's bride has sought her
Nice new home to rear her young
On your tonsils or your tongue.
Cough on, victims! Cough and wheeze on!
This is the bacilli season.

THE HERO

A battalion of British soldiers in India had to make a forced march of thirty miles to the scene of a reported rising of the natives.

When they got there they found it was a false alarm, and the commanding officer told them they must march home again.

Hearing the groans of the weary ones, he cried:

"If there is any man who does not want to march back, let him step three paces forward."

The whole battalion, with the exception of one man, stepped forward.

"My good man," said the C. O., "you are a credit to the Army. You are the only man willing to march back thirty miles."

The solitary hero stated blankly at the C. O.

"March back thirty miles?" he stuttered. "Why, I'm too tired even to step forward three paces!"

BITS FROM BOOKS

"Millionaires who laugh are rare."

So said Andrew Carnegie, and his words are reproduced by Sir Charles Macara in his newly-published book, "Recollections."

Sir Charles was Mr. Carnegie's guest at Skibo Castle on one occasion when the latter gave him a copy of a poem which had appeared some time previously in a local paper over the signature R. C., and which, Mr. Carnegie intimated, had given him the greatest possible pleasure to read. Here are the first two verses:

ME AND ANDRA

We're puir bit craiturs, Andra, you an' me,
Ye hae a bath in a marble tub, I dook in the sea,
Cafe au lait in a silver joog for breakfast gangs to you;
I sup my brose wi' a horn spuin an' eat till I'm fu'.
An' there's nae great differ, Andra, hardly ony;
My sky is as clear as yours, an' the cl'uds are as bonnie;
I whussle a tune through my teeth to mysel' that costs nae money.

The bobolink pipes in the orchards white in your hame on the ither side;
Grey whaups cry up on oor muir t' me, white seamaws soom on oor tide;
An organ hums in your marble hall wi' mony a sough an' swell,
I list to the roar o' the wind an' the sea in the hollow o' a shell.
An' there's nae great differ, Andra, hardly ony ava;
For the measure that throbs through eternal things to me is as braw,
An' it wafts me up to the gate of God to hear His choir an' a'.

TINY TRUTHS

At the age of forty a man is either an old bachelor or a pessimist.

Every woman thinks she has the right to make a fool of some man.

Health is the foundation both of judgment and industry, and therefore of success.

Passion may change or die; love may demand new methods of expression, but it cannot change or die.

Schurman Speaks On Conference

The following is the text of the speech delivered by Dr. J. G. Schurman, American Minister, at the dinner held by the American Association of North China, in Peking, to celebrate Washington's Birthday.

Today is sacred to the memory of Washington. He needs no eulogy. His place is fixed in the hearts of his type, men of capacity, honesty, genuine patriotism and unselfish devotion to the public good—constitute the finest essence of democracy and the soul and spirit by which republics live and move and have their being.

Washington is today already less a person than an influence and a force in history. The capital which bears his name has just been the scene of a memorable world-conference. It is not too much to say that the great gathering has removed causes of friction in the Orient, clarified the relations between the powers, promoted mutual understandings, developed the practice of conference and discussion between nations, and in general consolidated and confirmed the peace of the world. If I am not mistaken the year of the Conference will be regarded as an annus mirabilis in the history of international relations.

ANNIVERSARY OF CONFUCIUS

Let me advert to an historical coincidence which no one I believe has observed. The Washington Conference synchronises with the 2400th anniversary of the death of Confucius who, as you know, was entombed in his native province of Shantung. You also know that his canonisation by the Chinese people has hallowed that province and made his grave at K'iuh-fow the most sacred spot in all China. That is why the alienation of Shantung or of any part of it was for the Chinese people not only a national humiliation, but also a religious desecration. It was the profanation of their holy of holies.

It is, therefore, a high and momentous achievement of the Washington Conference for the Chinese people that the 2400th anniversary of the burial of their great teacher of righteousness witnesses their complete recovery of the province of Shantung which that holy man's mortal remains have so long sanctified and glorified.

For this great and long desired consummation credit must be assigned to many co-operating agencies. First of all, and most influential, was the sympathy of the American people with the people of China—a sympathy so strong that the Senate of the United States even before they finally rejected the whole Treaty of Versailles in 1920 had already refused to accept the provisions which legalised the alienation of Shantung. Then the fact that the Conference was held in Washington provided a psychological atmosphere more favorable to the case of the Chinese people than could have been found anywhere else in the world. Another factor was the universal good feeling and conciliatory spirit of all the national delegations at the Conference. I must, however, especially signalise the wise and far-sighted moderation of the statesmen of Japan, the courteous but firm and patriotic attitude of the Chinese delegation with constant support and ultimate guidance of Dr. Yen, and the patient and amazingly resourceful mediation and perfect team-work of Mr. Balfour and Secretary Hughes.

Above all, with an influence proportionate to his high office, shone the unquenchable faith of President Harding, his genius for conference and conciliation, his unfailing practical wisdom, and that tactful leadership which in the end snatched from the very jaws of defeat a triumphant consummation—a settlement providing for the restitution to China of her immemorial rights, highly honorable to Japan, and extremely advantageous and beneficent to both countries.

DOING THE IMPOSSIBLE

Who would have predicted such a happy result in advance? Not the most sanguine friend of China acquainted with the terms of the Treaty of Versailles and conversant with world-politics could have dreamt a few months ago that the unconditional return of Shantung to China was a possibility. President Harding and Mr. Hughes through the Conference at Washington have accomplished the impossible. I venture to apply to them a story told of Confucius. Let me quote from the "Analects:"

"Tzu Lu once passed the night in Shih-men, where the gatekeeper said to him: Where do you come from? Tzu Lu replied: From the school of Confucius—Oh, is he not the man, said the other, who is trying to do what he knows to be impossible?"

Three months ago the unconditional return of Shantung to China was deemed impossible by all the world. Today it is an accomplished fact.

But the recovery of Shantung while appealing more than anything else to the sentiments of the Chinese people, is not by any means the only advantage which China has gained from the Washington Conference. Here again the Conference has followed in the steps of Confucius. When that great teacher on being informed that the Prince of Wei was waiting for him to take up the reins of Government was asked what was the first reform he would introduce, his reply was: "I would begin by defining terms and making them exact." This remark occasioned great surprise, as you can well imagine. But Confucius was not to be moved from his thesis which he defended by the following argument:

"If terms are not correctly defined words will not harmonise with things. If words do not harmonise with things, public business will remain undone. If public business remains undone, order and harmony will not flourish. If order and harmony do not flourish, law and justice will not attain their ends."

If the exact definition of terms is the first condition of right relations within any one state it is a fortiori the primary and fundamental condition of right international relations.

AS TO CHINA'S RIGHTS

Accordingly the Nine Power Treaty adopted by the Washington Conference is made up to no inconsiderable extent of definitions and precisely formulated principles and rules. The contracting Powers other than China agree to respect the sovereignty—the independence and territorial and administrative powers of China: to provide the fullest unembarrassed opportunity to China to develop and maintain for herself an effective and stabilised government; to use their influence for effectually establishing and maintaining the principle of equal opportunity for the commercial and industrial undertakings of all nations throughout the territory of China; and to refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China in order to seek special rights and privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of friendly states.— And for the purpose of safeguarding those principles the contracting powers agree not to enter into any treaty agreement, arrangement or undertaking either with one another or individually or collectively with any power or powers which would infringe or impair them.

The Open Door is also more exactly and concretely defined and applied in this Treaty. The contracting Power bther than China agree that they will not seek, nor support their respective nationals in seeking, any arrangement which might serve to establish or favor a general superiority of rights with respect to commercial or economic development in any designated region of China: nor seek such monopoly or preference as would support the deprivation of the nationals of any other power of the right of undertaking any legitimate trade or industry in China or of participating with the Chinese Government or with any local authority in any category of public enterprise, or which by reason of its scope duration, or general extent is calculated to frustrate the practical application of the principle of equal opportunity. And by the principles contained in these stipulations for securing the open door or equality of opportunity in China for the trade and industry of all nations, China herself undertakes to be guided in dealing with applications for economic rights and privileges from governments of all the parties to the Treaty.

NO DISCRIMINATION

China agrees that through the whole of the railways in China she will not exercise or permit unfair discrimination of any kind. The specifications on this subject included in the Treaty strikingly illustrate the many varieties or railway discrimination which have been practiced in the past. It is stipulated that in the future there shall be no discrimination whatever, direct or indirect in respect of charges or facilities on the ground of nationality of passengers to the countries from which or to which they are proceeding or the origin or ownership of goods, or the country from which or to which they are consigned or the nationality or ownership of the ships or other means of conveying such passengers or goods before or after their transportation on the Chinese railways.

Nor is this comprehensive obligation confined to China alone. On the contrary the contracting Powers other than China assume a corresponding obligation in respect to any of the Chinese railways over which they or their nationals are in position to exercise control in virtue of any concession, special agreement, or otherwise.

The contracting Powers other than China agree fully to respect China's rights as a neutral in time of war to which China is not a party, and China declares that when she is a neutral she will observe the obligations of neutrality. As past history shows this is a provision of vital importance to China. The position of some of her provinces in Asia in relation to surrounding countries is not unlike that of Belgium in

Found a Cure for Indigestion.

"I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different medicines. I am nearly fifty one years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want to, now," writes George W. Emory, Dock Mills, Ala. These tablets contain no pepsin but strengthen the stomach and enable it to digest the food naturally.

Schurman Speaks On Conference

Europe, and as in the case of Belgium so in the case of China an effective guarantee of the inviolability of the country's territory is the best promise and pledge of preservation of peace.

DISCUSSION VS. FORCE

There is another provision of the Treaty brief in compass, simple in its terms, unpretentious in its spirit, which may nevertheless prove exceedingly efficacious in the adjustment of difficulties between nations, and consequently in the maintenance of peace. I refer to the provision in which the contracting Powers agree that whenever a situation arises which in the opinion of any one of them involves the application of stipulations in the present Treaty, and renders desirable discussion of such application, there shall be full and frank communication between the contracting parties concerned. One may say this provision is a continuation of the method of discussion and consultation practiced in the Washington Conference itself. "To govern," says Confucius, "is to keep straight." It is a notorious fact, however, that things in international, as in national and individual affairs, do not always keep straight. They often go awry, and the question is how in such cases are they to e rectified. If there is a deviation from the principles and regulations laid down in the Nine Power Treaty, how is the evil to be rectified? How shall the Treaty be safeguarded? The means proposed for this purpose are exceedingly simple. The corrective agency adopted is nothing more or less than President Harding's practical rule of getting together, talking over mutual difficulties and reaching a common sense adjustment. In other words, the method of removing international misunderstandings and preserving peace is full and free discussion of difficulties and appeal to the public opinion of the civilised world. I submit this method has been vindicated by the Washington Conference itself.

Discussion and conference are to be resorted to by disputants for the settlement of their difficulties, but in addition to the parties immediately concerned in international difficulties it is in these days essential that public opinion shall be informed and instructed in regard to these troubles and the antecedent conditions out of which they grow. The Washington Conference has, therefore, wisely provided for the publishing of all treaties and exchanges of diplomatic notes between China and any foreign power. It will be seen that the method of discussion and conference is to be supplemented by the method of universal publicity.

TARIFF REVISION

China is suffering from inadequate public revenues. At present the National Treasury is empty and creditors, both foreign and domestic are demanding of the government the payment of large amounts of the principal and interest of debts already overdue. Additional revenues are also needed for the maintenance of public administration, to say nothing of public improvements and the education of the rising generation. I see no reason to doubt the report of experts that in a country with the wealth and resources of China it would not be difficult to raise adequate amounts of revenues for all these purposes, provided a scientific system of taxation were adopted, and the machinery of collection were effective. With the larger part of this problem foreign nations have nothing to do: it is a question for the Chinese themselves.

Foreign nations have, however, a responsibility in connection with the Chinese tariff. Under existing treaties the tariff cannot be revised, nor the duties raised without their consent. The Washington Conference has provided that the tariff is to be raised to an effective 5 percent within four months, and this revision to go into effect two months thereafter. Furthermore, the conference has provided for a further increase of the tariff to the maximum of 12½ percent already contemplated by existing treaties between China and certain of the foreign powers, including the United States, and also for the abolition of likin, which is the condition precedent to putting into effect the rate of 12½ percent. Finally, the Conference provides that during the period between the adoption of the 5 percent effective tariff and the further increase to 12½ percent, a commission consisting of representatives of China and of the Power may authorise the levying of a surtax of 2½ percent, with a possible advance to 5 percent on select classes of commodities.

SOVEREIGN RIGHTS

In all civilised countries the postoffice is a part of the government administration, and a mark and symbol of sovereignty. In China, however, foreign postoffices have sprung up, and China has felt humiliated by them. The Washington Conference has provided for the abolition of these foreign postoffices. The Chinese delegates pressed hard also for the abolition of consular jurisdiction.

Now, every friend of China must recognise that the extraterritorial rights and privileges enjoyed by foreigners are not only an anomaly but a grave derogation from the sovereignty of China. It is equally true that every impartial investigator is compelled to admit that circumstances in the past have justified foreigners in asserting these extraterritorial rights as the only means of adequate protection for their persons and properties. With the development of China, however, as a member of the family of nations, it is certain that extraterritoriality must in time be abolished. The sooner it can be done with safety the better it will be for good relations between China and foreign nations. When it shall be done is a question to be determined by an impartial investigation of the facts of the case. The relevant and material facts are not only the possession of modern codes and courts, but the presence of a well trained judiciary, and above all the habit of settling disputes on the basis of law and equity alone, without any regard for influence, intimidation, rewards, "squeeze," or any other form, gross or insidious, of graft and corruption. These are the facts to be investigated, and the Washington Conference has provided for the appointment of a commission of experts to conduct this investigation. The abolition of consular jurisdiction will await their reportt.

China also resents, not unnaturally, the presence of foreign police and foreign troops on her soil. Their presence was rendered absolutely essential by the Boxer uprising against foreigners in 1900. They ought, however, to be withdrawn as soon as China can protect foreign life and property. This policy was adopted by the Washington Conference. Like so many other phases of the question of the restoration of sovereign rights to China, this one depends on the existence of a united, stable and effective government. It is to be hoped that the Chinese people will, now that they have succeeded in gaining such large concessions from foreign nations through the Washington Conference, address themselves to the problem of the reform of the administration of their government, the rehabilitation of their public finances, and the reunion of their separate provinces in a single and harmonious republic of China.

THE ARMY PROBLEM

There is another difficult problem which also presses upon the Chinese people for solution. I mean the existence of separate armies in China, dominating or interfering with the central government rather than subordinate to it, controlled by practically irresponsible military leaders and numbering altogether more than the aggregate armies of all the powers represented in the Washington Conference. So long as these armies continue, the power of government in China is necessarily in the hands of irresponsible military chieftains. But the first and supreme condition of a republic is that the military power shall be absolutely under the control of the civil power, and the civil power shall consist of representatives chosen by the people and under the people's control. The deplorable military situation in China was recognised in Washington, and the Conference in a spirit of genuine friendship and helpfulness passed resolutions urging China to disband or reduce her multitudinous troops.

China made further gains in Washington which, though not embodied in the resolution of the Conference were the subject of statements before the Conference. These statements presumably would not have been made but for the meeting of the Conference in Washington, and the spirit of conciliation and accommodation by which it was actuated. The gains are very substantial. In the first place England agreed to the return of Weihaiwei to China and France stated her willingness to relinquish control of Kwangchowwan as soon as other leased territories are given up. In this connection China herself officially stated that no more territory would be leased to foreign powers. Finally Japan promised to relinquish important preferential rights which she had exercised in Manchuria and also to withdraw Group Five of the Twenty One Demands. It will be recalled that this was the group in the Twenty-One Demands to which the Chinese people were most bitterly opposed, and although it had been held in abeyance it was still liable to be brought up for future consideration. It is significant of the spirit of the Conference, and a matter of great importance to China, that Group Five was formally withdrawn at Washington. On the other hand, China reserved her right at the same time to bring up the question of the Twenty-One Demands herself for discussion at some future time.

TORCHES of UNDERSTANDING

I have no time to speak of the results of the Washington Conference as a whole. I have been dealing only with its achievements for China, and from what I have said it is obvious that these are large, varied, very substantial, and in several respects highly important. If I had not already detained you so long, I should have been glad to speak of the work of the Conference as a whole, and the results of that work on international relations in general. I should have been glad to speak of the contribution made by the Conference to the creation of an international body of public opinion which every government must hereafter consider in formulating its future policies, and which no government will hereafter feel free to defy.

Owing, however, to the limits of time, I must forego these great and tempting themes, and I do so the more readily because I can sum up the achievements of the Conference in two memorable sentences from the speech with which President Harding closed it on Feb. 6. The President said:

"The Conference has lighted torches of understanding which will glow until they have encircled the globe.

"The faith pledged here today and kept in national honor will mark the beginning of a new and better epoch in human progress."

SOLDIER RIDDEN PROVINCE LONGS FOR BANDIT RULE

Fukien, Prosperous Under Outlaws, Ruined By Governor's Army

(China Press Correspondence)

Yungchun, Feb. 25.—To distinguish between two terms as synonomous as "bandit" and "brigand" is of slight importance. Some dictionaries suggest that in derivation, the former is related to the idea of "outlaw," while the latter has lost its original meaning of "foot-soldier." Through what etymological process the ideas of "outlaw" and light-armed foot-soldier have finally arrived at a synonomous estate, it may be impossible to ascertain. But in Fukien Province such transformations are a commonplace. And should you ask farmer or merchant which was most to be feared, bandit or "brigand?" the verdict would surely be that the soldier is the more lawless of the two.

Central Fukien has several mountainous counties, which have long been the resort of outlaw bands. In former years, vigorous campaigns on the part of the government have resulted in the capture of prominent leaders, and brief periods of peace. After the establishment of the republic, conditions in the county of Tehwa invited a drastic campaign. The forces of Governor Li Hou-chi, in spite of heavy handicaps, cleaned out most of the mountain strongholds and captured the most famous of the outlaw leaders. It was a blood and fire campaign in which hundreds of villages were sacked and thousands of families rendered homeless. That was eight years or so ago, but there are many villages, which even today have not recovered from that destruction. The meager remnant living in straw-thatched dugouts wring from their mountain fields a miserable existence.

ON EDGE OF LINE

When the South forced its campaign against the North, the line of its furthest advance barely included these bandit-infested districts. As a matter of military policy these outlaws were invited to become patriots and to assist in the campaign. They offered a rather indifferent aid, but in the bargain became possessed of better arms and some supplies of ammunition. Before long the tide of offensive turned elsewhere, and the counties of Yungchun, Tehwa and Tatien passed through many months of uncertain control. The inhabitants suffered at the hands of one leader after another, until thousands had been forced to emigrate, and those remaining had been bled into poverty.

During these years of terror, the populace in Tehwa and Tatien tried various means of defence. The organisation in various sections of local militia and defence corps proved a snare and a delusion. It greatly increased the number of youths carrying guns. Most of these were gradually absorbed into the ranks of one or another of the bandit groups. The building of fortlike clan-houses, another attempt at defence, proved almost as ineffective.

Only Yungchun county had a respite under the leadership of General Wan. During a period of about fifteen months, Yungchun passed through the throes of a transformation, which not only changed the face of the landscape, but cut deep down into the marrow of conservatism and heathen customs. Guided and often compelled by a determined leadership, ten years of advance were made as in a breath. Business was beginning to revive and men were beginning to hope for better days. Those who had emigrated began gradually to return.

"PRACTICAL" MEN

Then came Governor Li's determination to win back these counties from the control of the local leaders. Nominally these men were under appointment by him, but in reality, they were independent in attitude and lacking in response to his demands for money. During this last summer, Yungchun, Tehwa and Tatien were retaken in a rapid campaign. It was a campaign in name only.

There was practically no resistance, as the bandits made a "strategic" retreat. Heavy fighting was often reported to Foochow to back up applications for ammunition.

But the soldier and the officer in the Governor's army are first of all "practical" men, and in the last resort, fighters. The bandit is the reason for his existence. Kill off the bandit and the soldier's job is in danger. As to ammunition, firing it at bandits is a wasteful procedure. It is far more remunerative to sell it to bandits for hard cash.

The campaign was a camouflage. In reality it was an armistice with the bandits. Not one prominent leader was captured. Several lesser officers were captured but released when they produced sufficient ransom. As a show at the very beginning, twenty mountain villagers were corralled, brought to Yungchun, proclaimed bandits and publicy executed in a most bloody fashion. As in this instance, so in every step of the campaign, it has been the village people, and not the bandits, who have suffered.

These officers of the governor commandeered and damaged churches; they impressed a pastor and a teacher to help carry heavy machine guns, beating them severely when they fell under the impossible load. Defiant thus even of treaty responsibilities, it is no wonder that the cry is heard on every side, "Give us bandit rule, but free us from a living death at the hands of these heartless soldier-brigands." The bandits used to impose heavy taxations. But when the soldiers of the governor visit a village, it is cleaned of food and livestock and blankets, the very necessities of life. In case of remonstrance or anger, the torch cleans the slate. Even in the houses of Yungchun City, women and girls are not safe from violence at the hands of government troops.

French Scientist Tells Of Synthetic Ammonia Process

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Feb. 28.—The celebrated French chemist, Georges Claude, yesterday read a paper before the Academy of Science on the perfecting of the manufacture of synthetic ammonia.

This Claude process of manufacturing synthetic ammonia differs from all others in that while most systems work at low temperatures and under pressures not higher than 100 atmospheres or 1,500 pounds to the square inch. M. George Claude uses the enormous pressure of 1,000 atmospheres equivalent to almost 15,000 pounds to the square inch, about half that developed by smokeless powder in the high power artillery weapons.

Not only is this enormous pressure controlled by M. Claude's type of apparatus, but he also uses a red heat in his process. To control this process, employing hydrogen, the most inflammable gas known, working on a commercial scale at 1,000 atmospheres and at a red heat, stamps M. Georges Claude as an engineer of the highest ability and his process is deemed one of the marvels of modern chemistry.
